Adaptiv Technologies Announces New Packaging and Price Drop for TPX™ Radar and Laser Detection System

Indianapolis, IN - February 12, 2010 - Adaptiv Technologies announced that the TPX™ Motorcycle Radar and Laser Detection System will now include the Visual Alert and the MSRP for this new package will be lowered to $299.

According to company CEO Wayne Chen, the price reduction is part of their commitment to their customers.

"We wanted to include the Visual Alert when the product was first introduced, but back then our manufacturing costs were just too high. We've been telling our customers all along that we will drop the price whenever we can. Now that the product has reached a certain critical mass, we've been able to realize some cost savings and are passing that to our customers," Chen said. He added, "The price drop and inclusion of the Visual Alert will make our products more accessible to customers."
